

ABIS AWARD

SUSTAINABILITY AWARD

For initiatives and projects aiming to contribute the UN Sustainable Development Goals and strengthening business-academic collaboration.

More information: bit.ly/AbisAward

Deadline for applications: 30 September 2017

What is the ABIS Sustainability Award?

The ABIS Sustainability Award honours initiatives and projects aiming to contribute to the UN Sustainable Development Goals and in particular, strengthening business-academic collaboration. ABIS will reward successful projects and initiatives that have demonstrated impact and replicability and are relevant to any of the targets under the UN Sustainable Development Goals.

Jury and Awarding Procedure

The jury is chaired by Viscount Etienne Davignon – Belgian Minister of State & Honorary Advisory Board Chairman of ABIS. The awarding procedure will be based 50% on the votes of the international jury and 50% on the votes given by the participants of the Colloquium. The award ceremony will be held on second day of this event and will give a great visibility for the submitted projects.

Why?

The contest aims to boost innovation in sustainability projects and to strengthen business-academic collaboration. The ABIS Sustainability Award provides the opportunity for your organisation to receive recognition of your work from the ABIS network – around 100 international companies, leading academic and affiliated institutions. The award can also increase your brand recognition, visibility and create opportunities for new partnerships. ABIS will publish an official awards report – featuring all projects submitted for this contest, and will also share information on ABIS website and social media.

Who?

The award scheme is open to companies, academic institutions and networks – from a local initiative to industry-wide multi partner programmes.

How?

To participate, please send a one page abstract of your project, mentioning the UN SDGs you are contributing to marco.matrisciano@abis-global.org by October 10, 2017.